

News Release

Steven Wilt joins Encore to Lead the Business Consulting Practice

The Business Consulting Practice integrates business prowess, process, people and technology to deliver powerful solutions that enable the competitive performance of the enterprise. By unlocking the experience and creativity inherent within your company, unparalleled value is created by fueling innovative change and transforming how a company adopts, aligns and leverages technology to materially improve their 'top-to-bottom' line performance.

With over 25 years of progressive experience, Steve is a proven senior business executive who enjoys noteworthy success improving the competitive performance of various organizations. Recognized as a thought-leader in the development and application of creative thinking, he has worked across a spectrum of industries to envision and implement transformational business and technology strategies that support the generation of sustainable competitive advantage.

Prior to joining Encore, Steve was the President of Innovus, a consultancy that specialized in business innovation and transformation as well as a Partner in CSC and Cap Gemini.